STANFORD CONCERT SERIES

OFFERS

TITO SCHIPA (Wednesday night, November 6) has been enthusiastically received by critics and vast audiences in opera and concert more than any other great tenor in America. To have a man who sings to his audience what he knows they want to hear him sing, is indeed a distinct opening for the Stanford series.

NELSON EDDY (Wednesday night, November 20). The tall, blonde American baritone has, at a youthful age, a record anyone might envy. He is today a versatile, beautiful singer, with wide experience in concert, opera, radio, and oratorio. With a successful start in films this past season, he added the lustre of being a singer-actor to his varied career.

VIENNA CHOIR BOYS (Wednesday night, January 8), by Imperial decree, was founded by Emperor Maximilian in the year 1498 as an adjunct to the famous Court Orchestra in Vienna. Their repertoire includes many charming operas, church choruses, national choruses, Christmas songs.

TRUDI SCHOOPE AND HER COMIC BALLET (Friday night, February 7) are being brought to America for the first time by S. Hurok who presents this as a sequel to his Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. Trudi Schoop and her group present a faultless and complete work of art in which are included dance, pantomime, theater, and the charm of theatrical costume.

JASCHA HEIFETZ (Thursday night, February 27) has a lifetime of playing behind him. He has been successfully an infant prodigy, a boy wonder, an adolescent sensation. His is a world-name, literally so, for he has encircled the globe four times. His public awaits him in every civilized corner of two continents.
